Canton, MA (June 3, 2014) Lapuck Laboratories, Inc. announced today that their Organization has been awarded the ISO 17025 Accreditation by the ANSI-ASQ National Accreditation Board-ACCLASS. The Laboratory is located at 70 Shawmut Road, Canton, Massachusetts 02021.

“Today, more than any other time, we’re honored and proud to have received the ISO Accreditation by a world-renowned ACLASS Organization,” said Dr. Zadeh, President and Director of Lapuck Laboratories, Inc. “ACCLASS is also recognized by ILAC, APLAC, and IAAC for the Agency’s ability to monitor strict compliance with ISO 17025 Guidelines.”

Founded in 1966, Lapuck Laboratories Inc., a food, pharmaceutical, and environmental microbiology testing laboratory, has been providing reliable testing and consulting services to food manufacturers and distributors, pharmaceutical and nutraceutical companies, as well as private and public institutions and government agencies.

The year 1994 was a turning point for Lapuck Laboratories when Dr. Khalil S. Zadeh, with a strong background in medical microbiology, foodborne illness, and government regulatory affairs, took over the leadership of the Organization.

“The latest milestone achievement in our 48-year history of providing testing and consulting services in New England,” remarked the laboratory’s Quality Control Director, “demonstrates the exceptional level of the Laboratory’s technical competence and our continued commitment to providing testing services that are reliable, consistent, and in conformance with all applicable regulatory standards.”
